1.a PRESENTACIÓN

Todo maestro de Educación Primaria debe tener un conocimiento de la lengua inglesa suficiente para, además de manejar las cuatro destrezas lingüísticas eficazmente (hablar, entender, escribir y leer), poder enseñar dicha lengua a niños y niñas de edades comprendidas entre los 6 y los 12 años. La asignatura Lengua Extranjera II: Inglés, concebida como la continuación de Lengua Extranjera I: Inglés, tiene como principal objetivo que el estudiante, futuro maestro, tome conciencia de la importancia que supone tener un nivel comunicativo adecuado en lengua inglesa para poder realizar dicha función. Para ello se trabajará la competencia comunicativa por medio del desarrollo de sus diversas sub-competencias haciendo especial énfasis en la adquisición de las estrategias relacionadas con las destrezas de hablar y escuchar.

1.b PRESENTATION

Primary Education teachers must have sufficient knowledge of the English language not only to manage the four linguistic skills efficiently (speak, understand, write and read), but also to teach the language to children aged between 6 and 12 years. The subject Foreign Language II: English is conceived as the continuation of subject Foreign Language I: English. The main objective is that the students, future teachers, become aware of the importance of having an adequate communicative level in English to perform this function. To do so, communicative competence strategies will be worked through the development of its various sub-skills with special emphasis on the acquisition of oral and listening skills.

2. COMPETENCIAS

5. ASSESSMENT

Assessment Criteria:

The students will have to show the capacity to:

- Express oneself with relative ease, a good command of the vocabulary and reasonable correction on the topics discussed in class.
- Write narrative, descriptive or academic texts on topics relevant to daily life and the teaching profession.
- Exchange/debate, check and confirm information using a linguistic repertoire and appropriate strategies to help maintain a conversation.
- Present information using a linguistic repertoire and appropriate strategies to help primary school children acquire English skills.
- Understand specific oral or written information on various topics identifying both the general message and the specific details.
- Obtain an adequate pronunciation and a practical knowledge of the basic phonemes of the English language.

Grading criteria:

The final grade of the students will be based on the following criteria:

Outstanding (Sobresaliente):

- The students will demonstrate an excellent command of the English language that allows them to communicate with relative ease and fluency. Likewise, they participate in a very satisfactory way in conversations on topics relevant to daily life and the teaching profession. Your level of participation in class is very high. The students also demonstrate an excellent understanding and production of texts in English related to daily life and teaching practice.

Merit (Notable):

- Students will demonstrate a satisfactory command of the English language that allows them to communicate with relative ease and fluency, although they sometimes have coherence problems. Likewise, they can participate satisfactorily in conversations on topics relevant to daily life and the teaching profession. Your level of participation in class activities is high. The students also demonstrate a high level of understanding and production of texts in English related to daily life and teaching practice.

Pass (Aprobado):

- Students demonstrate that their command of the English language is basic, which does not allow them to communicate with relative ease and fluency. Likewise, they participate in an acceptable manner in conversations on topics relevant to daily life and the teaching profession. Your level of participation in class activities is medium. Students also demonstrate an acceptable level of comprehension and production of texts in English related to daily life and teaching practice.

Fail (Suspenso):

- Students have serious problems communicating with relative ease and fluency. They also have difficulty in participating in conversations on topics relevant to daily life and the teaching profession. They show a great lack of interest and participation in class activities. The students also have a low level of understanding and production of texts in English related to daily life and teaching practice.

The final grade for the subject for continuous assessment students will be granted as follows:

- Active participation in small group classes and group tutorials: 10 %
- Tests, exercises and written work related to the subject of study: 20 %

- Written exam (grammar, vocabulary, oral and written comprehension): 30 %
- 2 oral assignments: 40 % (20% each)

Students who have been granted the final evaluation must pass, a test of the subject with a value of 100% that will include grammar, oral comprehension, oral production, written comprehension and written production. The same criteria will be applied for the extraordinary call.

Assessment procedures:

The main evaluation procedure in this subject will be the continuous evaluation. In this sense, students must attend compulsorily 85% of the classes in small groups and group tutorials. Likewise, they must complete all the activities that are requested, both in small group classes and in group tutorials. They must also take a written exam and two oral tests. Those students who do not comply with these requirements will be considered not presented in the ordinary call, and must take the final exam in the extraordinary call. Students will be evaluated taking into account the following instruments:

- Active participation in classes in small groups and in-group tutorials.
- Completion of grammar and vocabulary exercises, as well as oral and written comprehension and expression activities, such as debates, videos and digital content.
- Completion of a written exam on the contents studied throughout the course. The exam will consist of the following parts: questions about grammatical aspects, questions about vocabulary, questions about a written text, and questions about an oral text.
- Realization of two oral assignments that will consist of lesson plan preparation and presentation of a topic developed in class

Those students who fail to pass the subject in the ordinary call must complete the final exam in the extraordinary call. Likewise, in the event that a student considers themselves not able to follow the continuous evaluation, they will be able to take advantage of the final evaluation in the ordinary call. To do this, they must request in writing to the Dean of the Faculty of Education in the first two weeks of teaching the subject, explaining the reasons that prevent them from following the continuous assessment system.

For those students who are allowed the final evaluation in the ordinary call or who have to do the final exam in the extraordinary call, the evaluation will be carried out by means of a written exam and an oral test. The written exam will consist of several parts: questions about grammatical aspects, questions about the vocabulary of the topics covered in class, questions about a written text, questions about an oral text and a written composition. The oral test will consist of questions about the topics developed in class.
